

A CHECK-LIST OF MOLLUSCS OF GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, MONTANA

RICHARD H. RUSSELL AND ROYAL BRUCE BRUNSON

Department of Zoology University of Montana Missoula, Montana

Several aspects of the natural history of Glacier Park have been studied, and pamphlets have been printed which deal with such well-known areas as wild-flowers, birds, mammals, and rocks. However little has been published on the invertebrate faunas, and except for the work of S.S. Berry in 1919, no survey has been made of the Mollusca.

Glacier Park is a unique area for study, because within the Park are found headwaters of three great continental drainage systems: the Columbian, Hudsonian and Missourian (see map, p. 2).

This checklist is based largely upon: (1) the collections of the authors; (2) the survey by Berry in 1916; (3) Pilsbry's monograph on North American Land Mollusca. The authors would like to thank Mr. Gerald S. Swenson of the Department of Zoology, University of Montana, for access to his collection records made during the summer of 1966. Most of the Sphaeriidae were identified by Rev. H. B. Herrington and his help is gratefully acknowledged. We should like to acknowledge the help and cooperation of the officials of Glacier National Park, particularly Mr. Ed Beatty and Mr. Francis Elmore.

Some of the collections made by the senior author in 1960 were sent to the Chicago Museum of Natural History. Where this is the case, their catalogue numbers are given and preceded by CNHM. Catalogue numbers of the collections of the authors are preceded by their initials. Included are only those species for which actual records are available. Where synonyms occur in the literature, these are placed in parentheses after the specific name which the authors consider to be correct. In most cases, complete synonymies can be found in the references given after each species.

Distributions are not intended to be complete but are given only as an indication of the range of each species within the Park.
